PROPOSED TAX ON CORPORATE DIVIDENDS.

The Senate Finance Committee which is in charge of the tariff bill, is willing to accept, as a substitute for the income tax amendment, a proposition for a 2 per cent. tax upon the net earnings of corporations, and it is stated that this proposition emanated from President Taft. In substance, this would be a tax upon dividends, and as such its burden would fall upon the stockholders, for it would lessen the dividend rate by its exact amount. Of course, it will be strongly opposed and, despite its Presidential origin, we doubt strongly its adoption by either branch of Congress, not only because it would be discriminating taxation but also because it would reduce the dividends of some corporations so low that their shares would cease to be paying investments. To the stockholders of such corporations, as annually add considerable amounts to their surplus accounts and are still able to pay enticing dividends—for instance, the Oil and Steel Trusts—the proposed tax would perhaps not be perceptible, for these corporations would probably continue to declare dividends in the usual amount.

This tax, if adopted, should contain some provision under which feeble and comparatively feeble corporations would escape it or some part of it. Otherwise, it would amount to virtual confiscation, for it might so reduce dividends as to destroy the market value of the shares.

The little city of Seney, Ga., has adopted an ordinance prohibiting the use of automobiles within the city limits, and authorizing the marshal to arrest any one passing through Seney with such "engines of destruction."

It seems strange that any place claiming the title of "city" can be thus far behind the times, but it will seem even more strange if the courts maintain such action.

An independent sugar producer gave a practical illustration to President Taft on Thursday of the method of retaining sugar. The point of his contention was that the retention of the Dutch standard forced foreign sugar producers to make a product that tested below No. 16, Dutch standard, and under No. 16 by the polariscope, in order to get it into the country at less than the duty on refined sugar, and that the result of this was to force all such producers to dispose of their sugar to the trust, since there was no regular market for sugar darker than No. 16, no matter what its degree of purity.

For reasons which may be understood from this statement, Congress seems wedded firmly to the "Dutch standard"—it benefits the Sugar trust.

The Hartford Courant calls attention to the fact that "the men who now say (with Mr. Aldrich) that they are going to have their kind of tariff, whether it was written in the Chicago platform or not, disliked and feared that a year ago almost as much as they hated Roosevelt" and that "if they were any show for success, they will work as hard against his nomination as they did against his nomination."

It is somewhat early to discuss the campaign of 1912, but not too early to call attention to the fact that he then the Ex-President will be back from his African trip and may have something to say, and to do, in connection with that campaign. There is a possibility that he may take cognizance of and resent the Taft abandonment of quite a number of Rooseveltian policies, and consider the Taft policy in general as reactionary in fact and effect.

Newark is to have a contest over the liquor question next year, and Mr. Bryan announces that he intends to take a part in it. He says: "I shall do my part to keep our party from being controlled by the liquor interests." As may be recalled, there was an attempt made to connect him with the prohibition cause in some manner or degree, but whether well or ill founded, did not conclusively appear. It served however, after the election, as the basis for an assertion that the liquor trade's influence was given against Bryan and for Taft, but no conclusive evidence was furnished. The prohibition party's candidate for President did, however, assert that the liquor trade supported Taft, and upon that charge he based a characterization of the Republican party as the "rum party." Possibly, Mr. Bryan's present intention of keeping the Democratic party "from being controlled by the liquor interests" may be considered as at least a partial confirmation of the above mentioned reports as to the campaign.

In Gov. Weeks' veto of the bill prohibiting any tobaccoist from serving upon the New Haven board of police commissioners, there occurs the following sentence:

It is a salutary principle of our form of government that each locality shall have to the highest degree the right of self-government, limited only by considerations of general welfare.

This is somewhat in the nature of a new departure, if the Governor's words may be accepted as voicing a principle of his party. It has not been, and is not now, the practice of the General Assembly, under Republican dominance, to accord to cities "to the highest degree the right of self-government;" the practice is to allow the least home rule possible. How do propositions for the attachment of the referendum to charter amendments, for instance, fare at the hands of Republican Legislatures, the referendum constituting the highest and best illustration of home rule?

Doubtless, Gov. Weeks is sincere in his statement of the justice of the right of self-government in the highest degree, but before he can place the principle in the Connecticut Republican faith and secure its honest observance, he must undertake a deal of effective educational work.

The Beach Season—Dr. Cutler of Bangor

—Festival Last Night—Our Elm

Trees—Movements of Citizens—A

Subscription Paper.

The dance which was to have been given on Wednesday night in Beckwith's hall was postponed until last night.

It is thought the hard times in Danbury, owing to the prolonged strike of the hatters, will have a bad effect upon the season at Little Danbury beach.

Up to date there is not much doing along the coast.

Mr. Washburn of Chicago, who has been a student at the Hargrove school, having passed his examinations, will enter the University of Virginia.

But for the storm there would have been a much larger attendance at the jubilee singing and the strawberry festival held at the town hall last night.

An additional story is being placed upon the top of the restaurant in the Kinsella block.

Frost & Bartlett of Stamford have the contract for spraying the elm trees and it is thought no less than 175 will be taken in hand in various parts of the town. Mr. Betts alone received applications for the spraying of 121, which shows that the people of the town are alive to the situation.

Yesterday W. H. McNally and family of New York arrived at the Hanson cottage at the beach.

City water is being put into the house occupied by Geo. Jennings.

A. J. Fenner, in the cap of Fairfield that its enterprising citizen, A. Holland Forbes, won the prize in the recent balloon races for staying the longest time in the air.

Next Sunday the Fairfield baseball club will play the Westport club.

Work began yesterday upon the garage which Mr. Davis is having built on his new place at Mill Hill.

The house being built for Mr. Beach is approaching completion, and will be decorated by A. J. Fenner & Co.

A subscription paper is said to be circulating among Greenfield Hill residents for the purpose of soliciting funds for the purchase of an Ajax chemical engine.

There is a rumor that a summer hotel may be built near the beach in Southport, or possibly "at Greens Farms."

Eraustus Oakley and E. Northrop went to Louisville to attend the Imperial Council of the Shriners.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edwards are back from their wedding tour and will be at home to their friends in Fairfield.

It is stated that Misses Harriet and Ines Hull have gone to Europe for the summer.

Mr. Olmstead has been visiting in Hartford.
